ABSTRACT

Method for synchronizing frames by using pilot patterns in a compressed mode.   In a case a W-CDMA mobile communication system is operated in a compressed mode, the present invention permits to restore perfect frame synchronization words in frames by using 5    dedicated pilot sequence pattern, and achieve frame synchronization by using correlation of the restored frame synchronization words, even if all the 15 slots of one frame are not transmitted.